Investing in early stage businesses is high risk and you may lose some or all of your invested capital. Other risks include illiquidity and lack of dividends. These investments are not suitable for all investors, they should only be made as part of a diversified portfolio and they are targeted exclusively at sophisticated investors who understand these risks. Prospective investors should read the documents provided in relation to any specific investment opportunity in their entirety and consult with their own advisers before deciding whether to invest.

The levels and basis of taxation depend on an individual's circumstances and may change in the future. In addition, the availability of tax relief depends on the company invested in maintaining its qualifying status. There is likely to be a lack of operating history upon which to evaluate performance, and investors should also be aware that past performance is not a reliable indicator or guarantee of future performance and should not be relied on when considering investment. Investors' interests are unsecured and rank subordinate to other creditors. The lack of corporate listing for any private company may make it difficult or impossible for shares to be sold and prices may also fluctuate significantly.
